GUEST SPEAKER

Graham Sims

Last year Graham gave an amazing talk about the German airmen who got lost in Western Australia. This time, his talk is on Bea Miles a colourful Sydney identity.

Bea Miles: An Aussie Free Spirit

From the mid 1920's until her death in 1973, Beatrice (Bea) Miles was Sydney's best known and unforgettable eccentric, wandering the streets of Sydney and, when she felt like it, the bane of taxi drivers, bus and tram drivers and conductors. She was a remarkable, intelligent woman of prodigious knowledge and memory but of volatile and erratic behaviour. Graham recounts Bea's incredible story, including his personal encounters with her, and with unique input from her nearly 90-year-old niece, whom he met and interviewed.
